Class teaches women to become assertive

By Lynne Locke

People generally — not just women — have a difficult time standing up for themselves in this society," commented Maggi Wargin, who teaches assertion training for women through Chaffey College Community Education.

Women especially "tend to be passive because they have been taught it's not feminine to be assertive" and stand up for their rights, said Ms. Wargin, a marriage and family counselor in private practice.

She said most of the women in the class are housewives "who are hurting" because of the traditional feminine role. Many women who want to change are bewildered because they don't know where to start or how to change, she noted.

Ms. Wargin teaches class members more effective behavior, but the goal of the class is increased self-esteem, "not getting your own way," she said.

Even with more effective behavior people don't always succeed, but they do feel better about how they handled a situation or expressed their feelings, she said.

Class members learn their rights as individual people with definite needs. Each person has the right to state a need and to ask for it to be met, she said.

For instance, if a woman has had a confining day, she has the right to suggest she and her husband go out for the evening. But, said Ms. Wargin, she doesn't have the right to expect him to agree because he has needs of his own. He may need to rest after a busy day.

If he doesn't agree to go out for the evening, she has the right to meet her need another way, Ms. Wargin said. She may decide to go out by herself and/or ask a friend to come for a visit.

The most important principle is empathy, she added. Each person works at understanding and accepting the other person's feelings and needs.

Ms. Wargin said for many women it's a new idea that they have the right to refuse an unreasonable request. Requests have been a double problem for women, she noted. They feel guilty for refusing and angry if they agree.

In class sessions, women apply the assertion principles of stating a need, feeling empathy and using persuasion. They practice assertion on such hypothetical situations as receiving cold food in a restaurant or being overcharged in a store.

Another part of the class is learning to recognize anger. "Sometimes nonassertive people don't know what's hit them. Later they realize they've been taken advantage of," said Ms. Wargin, who identifies herself as a "delayed responder."

A typical homework assignment is for class members to notice when they are feeling physical signals of anger and anxiety. Heart palpitations, sweating and blushing are common signs.

Ms. Wargin said, "It is important to recognize anger and channel it into effective action." Anger turned inward is self-destructive causing such problems as ulcers and high blood pressure, she added.

Even for people who are slow reactors, it is never too late to be assertive, Ms. Wargin said. Delayed reactors may have to go back to the store or call the person back.

Ms. Wargin said women tend "to just let it pass" and absorb the rude or dishonest behavior. But those situations accumulate and cause growing anger and feelings of helplessness, she noted.

The only way to learn assertiveness is practicing the new responses, Ms. Wargin said. "It's a life-long process to practice the principles. But whatever you do with your life, you won't have the helpless feeling," she added.

Ms. Wargin said some husbands are surprised when their wives become more assertive. But men don't mind the change when they realize making and refusing requests are mutual rights.

In many marriages wives expect their husbands to guess what they need or want and feel angry when the guess is wrong, noted Ms. Wargin. Assertiveness improves communication because it makes people responsible for stating their needs. Couples are more comfortable when they can communicate with having to yell or cry.

The marriage relation is improved even if only one person learns to communicate assertively, she said. That person feels better after expressing feelings and handling situations well. And a change in one person often causes the other to change too, she added.

Says Lee Travers

Ontario-Upland bus line going well

By Lynne Locke

The new Ontario - Upland bus line seems to be going well although official reports have not yet been released, according to Upland City Manager Lee Travers.

During the first week of service ridership increased from 225 to 285 passengers, said dispatcher Dick Joyce. The new line, run by the West Valley Transit Service Authority (WVSTA), replaced the previous service by the Rapid Transit District (RTD).

The new service will cost Upland $2,600 more than the RTD service, Travers said. The Ontario - Upland line, serving "a lot more people and shopping centers," is estimated to cost 90 cents per mile. RTD service was 86 cents per mile.

Even with expanded service under WVSTA, "a tremendously large section of residential area is not covered," Travers noted.

WVSTA is considering demand - response service which would cover the area north of Foothill Boulevard and connect with the Ontario - Upland line.

A demand - response, or "dial-a-ride," service has been planned for Chino. The plan was abandoned when WVSTA learned that large an area would need two buses for a demand - response system to work successfully.

If WVSTA approves a demand - response service for north Upland, implementation of the service would take 2-3 months, Travers said.

Early scheduling problems faced by the new Ontario - Upland line have been cleared up, Joyce said. During the first week, the Ontario - Upland buses had to wait five minutes for transfers from the Alta Loma - Cucamonga line.

During the second week of service, transfers were completed without delay, Joyce said. WVSTA presently is investigating delays caused by trains crossing Euclid Avenue below Holt Boulevard.

Joyce said some bus drivers have reported waits of up to 15 minutes before trains clear the tracks. A 15-minute wait causes delays along the rest of the route. WVSTA is surveying bus and train times to avoid such problems, he said.

Fares for the bus service is 25 cents. Senior citizens and handicapped people can purchase bus passes for reduced fares. In the future, passes will be available for sale once a month at various places in the West End, Travers said.

Passes can be purchased for $3 at the Montclair Plaza 10 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. Saturday and noon - 5 p.m. Sunday.

People must apply in person so photographs can be taken for the passes. Senior citizens must bring proof of age such as driver's license, birth certificate or medi-care card.

People 62 years and older are eligible for the senior citizen passes which are valid until revoked. For information on bus passes, routes or times, call the West End Transit office, 988-1215.

She enjoys her job as fire inspector

She wears a size 9 but feels "like a linebacker for the Los Angeles Rams" in her oversized jacket.

Nancy "Nan" Williams of Upland is the first woman fire inspector ever hired by the Ontario Fire Department.

At the age of 25, divorced and with two children to support, Mrs. Williams applied for the job through the unemployment office.

"They told me I needed ability to communicate," she said. But she never dreamed her career as a factory worker would qualify her for the job.

"It's exciting. I love it. If I picked a job I wanted, I couldn't think of a better one," she said.

"When I applied, I thought the fire department would be great to work for, but there are so few women in the field, it just never crossed my mind I would get it," she said.

A West End resident all her life, Mrs. Williams completes a staff of six fire prevention officials under the leadership of Fire Prevention Chief Red Medley.

Her children, Brooke, 5, and Shannon, 3, are proud of their mom. "When we go shopping, Brooke will always tell someone, 'My mom's a fire inspector for the City of Ontario,'" Mrs. Williams said.

"She is not a strong advocate of women's liberation. 'I don't really feel I could make it as a firefighter,' she said. 'I'm just not strong enough to be a fireman. But in this section I can do just as good a job as a man and it's just as important as fire suppression really.'"

Mrs. Williams likes to sew and is learning to play tennis. She enjoys sports, but "I'm a very usual person. This (job) is the most unusual thing I have ever done."

The nearly all-male fire department has been good to her, she said.

"They are just fantastic. They have been so patient, almost to the point of being embarrassing sometimes."

A few days after she started work in March, she was training with the arson detail and wound up at an Ontario department store filled with smoke.

She didn't have her uniform then "and at least 12 people came up to me and said, 'Lady, you'll have to leave the store,'" Mrs. Williams recalled.

And a couple of times, men have said to her, "You're who? Okay, tell me who you really are."

A committee of professional men and women, skilled in the academic selection process, was convened to consider information submitted by each of the 14,000 finalists about themselves.

The committee considered each finalist's academic record, extracurricular attainments, test scores, statements about themselves and recommendations submitted by school officials.

Mizuno is an engineering valedictorian, California Scholastic Federation life member, Upland High Gold Sealbearer and winner of the Soroptimist Youth Citizenship award. ## Upland pianist wins cash

A 13-year-old Upland pianist was one of six cash finalist award winners in the recent Orange County Young Musicians Contest at Fullerton College.

Gregory Wingerd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Wingerd, was chosen from a field of 62 contestants by a panel of concert pianist judges. He performed Weber's "Konzertstück," a concerto for piano and orchestra.

A student of Sheldon Steinberg of Los Angeles, young Wingerd has played the piano since age seven and has performed with a number of Southern California symphony orchestras.

For the past two year he has been a recipient of a Tushinsky Memorial Scholarship administered by the Young Musicians Foundation of Los Angeles. He has been chosen by the foundation to perform in one of three upcoming concerts sponsored by the organization.

In that concert, scheduled for May 25 at the Brand Library in Glendale, Wingerd will perform works by Bach, Beethoven and Chopin.

Dog license, rabies clinics set

Countywide dog licensing and rabies vaccination clinics have been set for all population centers, according to Dr. R.A. Jackson, director of Animal Disease Control with the San Bernardino County Department of Public Health. Low-cost vaccinations will be given throughout the county.

Private practicing veterinarians and the San Bernardino County Health Department are sponsoring these clinics. Dogs may be licensed at $6 each and vaccinated at the reduced clinic rate of $2 for both males and females.

Dogs which are spayed or neutered may be licensed at only $3, provided a spay or neuter certificate is brought along.

Those who have a valid vaccination certificate or one that expires in 1976 can mail in for their license or pick it up at one of the licensing offices.

County residents who own dogs four months of age or older are urged to have their animals vaccinated and licensed now to avoid the high costs and penalties that go into effect August 1.

License costs will be raised to $10 and vaccinations must be obtained from private veterinarians after the first of August. Dog tags or licenses may be picked up at the Ontario office, 1020 W. Sixth St., 988-1332, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dr. Jackson said rabies continues to be a serious public health menace.

"Although there has not been any confirmed case of rabies among domestic animals in San Bernardino County, the threat of a rabies outbreak is continually before us."

Dr. Jackson said, "Unvaccinated dogs still remain in every community and these dogs constitute a threat to the protection which has been carefully built over the years."

The public's cooperation has been mainly responsible for the absence of rabies among domestic animals in the county for more than a decade. However, continuing public support is necessary to maintain this record.

Rabies can be prevented by building immunity in dogs through safe, simple and effective vaccination. It is required by law to have dogs licensed each year and vaccinated every other year.

Rabies vaccination and licensing clinics will be held in the following locations:

—Alta Loma: Fire station, 7152 Amethyst, Thursday, May 8, 9 a.m. to noon.

—Cucamonga: school 8677

Archibald, Friday, May 16, 6-8 p.m.

—Etiwanda: school, 6925 Etiwanda, Friday, May 16, 6-8:30-6 p.m.

—Los Serranos, Smith's Market, Descanso St., Wednesday, May 14, 4-7 p.m.

—Mt. Baldy: Post Office, Mt. Baldy Road, Thursday, May 15,

Art exhibits hanging in various buildings

Art exhibits are hanging in various places throughout the West End for the enjoyment of those who like to view paintings as they go into various buildings on business or pleasure.

Three members of the Chaffey Community Art Association have hung their paintings in the Parish Hall of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Upland at the request of the Rev. Charles Bennisson, rector.

The artists are June Alexis, Mary Godby and Harriet White.

Spring concert scheduled

Alta Loma Junior High School's annual spring band concert is scheduled Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium at the high school. Admission is free.

More than 130 young people under the direction of district instructor Wesley Hawkes will perform musical works from serious to popular.

The beginning band will combine with a group from Carnelian and Alta Loma Elementary schools in "Jazz in a Mellow Mood," while the seventh grade intermediate players will offer an arrangement of "Sweet Caroline" that includes a vocal group. Tchaikovsky's March from Symphony No. 2 and Meredith Wilson's "76 Trombones" are programmed for the advanced band.

The exhibit includes portraits, landscapes, still lifes and abstracts done in oils and watercolors. There are 40 works of art in the exhibit and they will hang until June 10 when they will be replaced by the works of three other artists.

The Chaffey Community Art Association also is sponsoring an exhibit in the San Bernardino County buildings at Sixth Street and Mountain Avenue, Ontario.

There are 11 oil paintings in the Public Defender's office. These are oils of landscapes, still lifes and abstracts created by Mrs. White.

In the Jury Assembly Room, there are 11 paintings by Charleen Vaughn.

The exhibits were planned by Miriam Perry, chairman of exhibits for the association, and the art works will hang until the first part of June.

In the Upland Public Library, there is an exhibit of oils by Nancy Ferguson from Pauma Valley. Her seven paintings are of landscapes and still lifes and one of the works received an honorable mention in a recent exhibit.

McKellar, Donald Loggins, Chris Krell and Robert Crow. Valencia School took second place and Sycamore took third. The league was sponsored by the Upland Recreation Department which provided trophies.

Farming's historic role shown

Agriculture's role in the development and progress of the nation will be dramatically displayed in the Agricultural Bicentennial Kick-off Sunday, May 18, at Chaffey College in Alta Loma.

More than 40 agricultural-related events have been planned for the all day program, sponsored by the World Farm Foundation in co-operation with Chaffey College and California State Polytechnic University.

Dedication of the Freedom Shrine and the presentation of the Bouslog award will highlight the day's activities which will include such events as art exhibits, clothing and home arts throughout the centuries, livestock and special horse events, old farm equipment, space exhibits, square dancing, all-American food stands, military bands and many more displays depicting the importance of agriculture to the nation's economy.

Nominal admission will be charged with reduced advance donations available at many locations. Ample free parking is provided.

The sponsoring World Farm Foundation is a non-profit, non-governmental corporation formed to maintain and advance economic, educational and scientific research in agriculture for the benefit of all mankind.

Additional information may be obtained on any of the events scheduled by calling (714) 987-1737 (Ext. 212 or 350) or (714) 635-8330.

Grow 'em anywhere

Buying, planting guidelines

Bare root bargain plants

Everyone likes a sale — especially when it's a real bargain. Now that bare root plant season is nearly over, many garden centers and department stores are offering their bare root merchandise at greatly reduced prices.

Chances are you might even have purchased some of these grown-out and often tattered-looking specimens already, either this year or last, or the year before, and maybe you found that they were slow to come around if they even grew at all.

By following a few simple guidelines, however, you will never have such a dismal experience again; in fact, you can actually profit and prosper with plants purchased at near-give away prices in late spring and early summer, once you've learned how to handle them.

It's no secret that plants have roots, but it is a mistake to support that those hefty, finger-like bare roots on your bargain tree are ready to go to work. First they must develop tiny, microscopic hair-like roots in the soil; it is these fragile root-hairs that actually do the work.

When a bare root bush or tree is planted in the winter while temperatures are cool and the top of the tree is dormant, these feeder-rootlets grow readily and without restraint or competition from leaves. But planted later, after the air has warmed up and new shoots are bursting forth, the entire plant is under a great deal of stress. Root-hairs must grow before the top of the tree can be nourished, and yet with warmer temperatures leaves are anxious to set up shop. Foliage draws a tremendous amount of moisture from stems, and without feeder-roots to provide a continuous flow of moisture from the soil through the stems to the leaves, stems will dehydrate and growth will be stunted or possibly terminated.

1. Remove all new growth by breaking or cutting it off. This may be the hardest part for you to do, but it is essential.

2. Soak the entire plant in water over night (but not much longer than that).

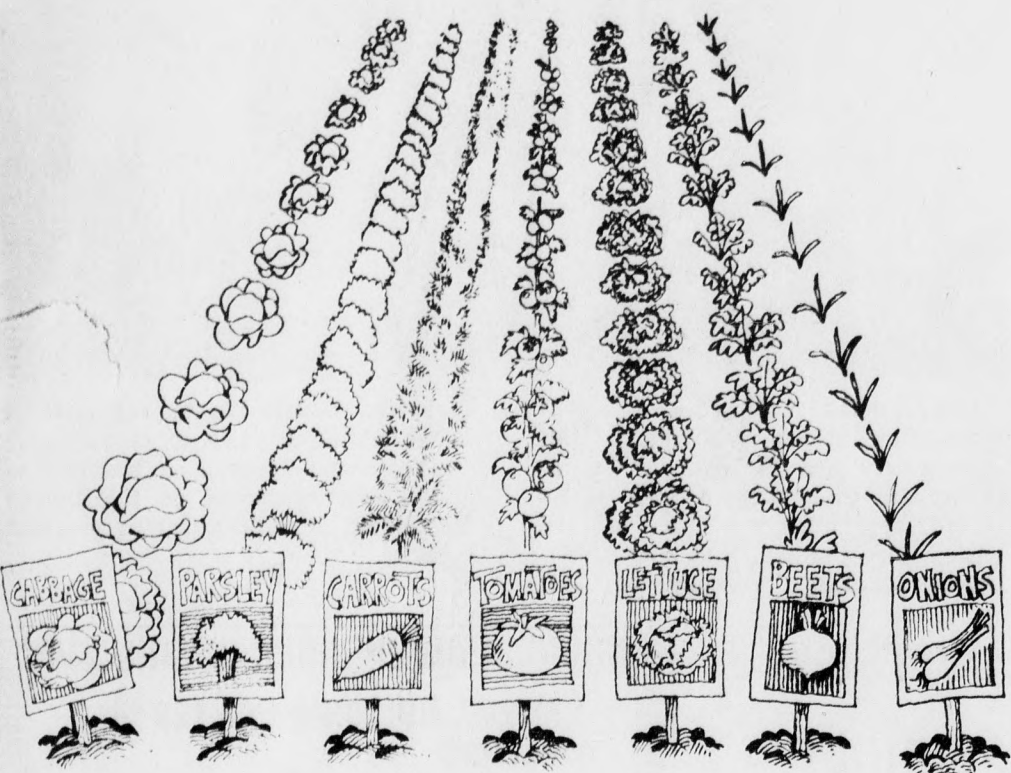

3. With rose bushes, trim all live canes to a height of 8-10 inches and remove dead branches.

4. On fruit trees cut all side stems back to 1½- or 2 inches. New, stronger branches will grow out during the summer.

5. Plant as usual and water.

6. Then, with rose plants, cover the entire plant with a mound of mulch or soil. After a few weeks when new shoots are 2-3 inches long, carefully wash away the soil or mulch to the proper planting level.

It doesn't take an acre of ground to produce enough vegetables to feed the family. A garden plot of 10-x-15-feet is large enough to keep a family of four well supplied with fresh vegetables. Seeds, sunshine, a fertile soil with good drainage, adequate amounts of water and a dash of care are the chief ingredients for a bountiful harvest. Remember to plan before you plant. A well organized vegetable garden, though small in size, will be great in productivity.

Indoor gardening

Shedding light on plant care

Okay, you've decided to start an indoor garden. Before jumping head-first into what could be an expensive and disappointing project by buying the wrong plants for your living conditions, let's look at what it takes to grow healthy plants.

All plants need light, but some require less than others. Trying to decide what kind of light you have can be fairly difficult. If you have an unobstructed southerly exposure you probably have bright, direct light conditions. An unobstructed northerly exposure usually indicates medium light conditions, while an obstructed exposure in any direction can mean medium to low light conditions.

Allowances for poor light can be made through the use of plant lights. An ordinary incandescent light can produce fairly good results. But all artificial lights must be kept on for 12 hours or more to be effective. In these energy-short days, it would probably be wisest to stick with low-light plants which can live without lights.

Flowering plants for Memorial Day

Flowering plants in clay pots submerged in the ground up to the rims are excellent for Memorial Day decorations. The Society of American Florists reminds that begonias, geraniums, azaleas and fuchsias are colorful, suitable and long-lasting.

Bringing nature inside

Shopping for indoor-type plants, and containers in which to feature them, is a fun and rewarding adventure suggests the California Association of Nurserymen. A tree-like weeping fig (Ficus benjamina) in a nursery container can be placed in an earthenware or terra cotta jardiniere. The combination is natural-looking and enhances the beauty of any room.

For a truly unusual accent for the home, try a dramatic staghorn fern. Grown primarily on moss tied to a piece of wood, this plant looks like a piece of sculpture.

On a smaller scale, an oriental-looking planter containing a Chinese aralia provides an interesting and beautiful piece. The plum-purplish coloration of the finely-serrated foliage heightens the dramatic beauty of such a creation.

Why not plant a bird's nest fern in a plastic-lined rattan basket which looks like an actual bird's nest? The possibilities are endless, as is evidenced throughout the nation, where Americans are bringing nature indoors.

Start with low-light house plants

While all plants need light, some need less than others to live and thrive. Here's a starter group of low-light plants to choose from.

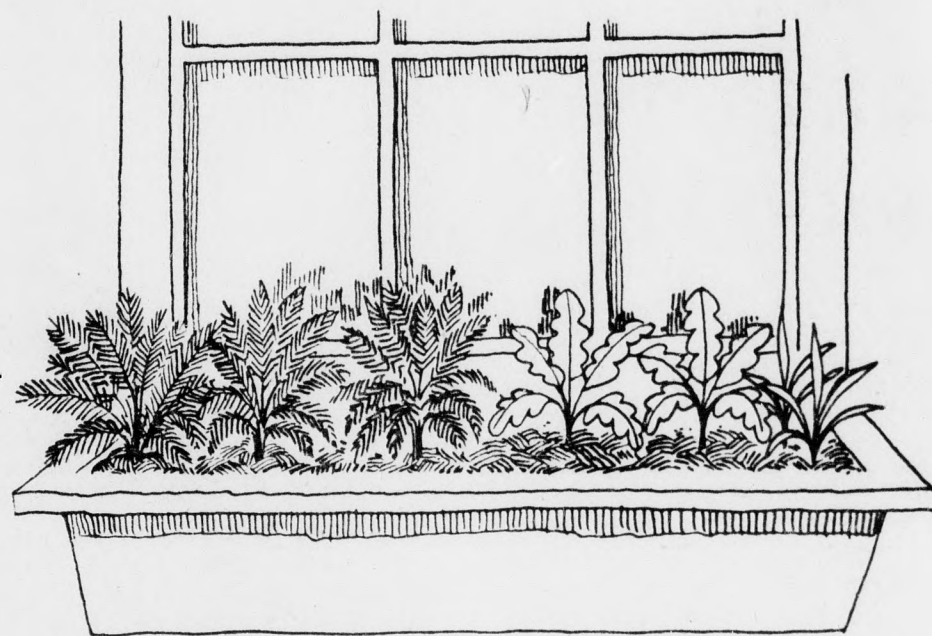

Sansevieria (commonly called snake-plant), any of the dracaena family (corn plant is the most widely known), aglaonema (Chinese evergreen), ficus elastica (rubber plant), philodendrons, dieffenbachia (dumbcane), pothos (sometimes mistaken for philodendron), maranta (prayer plant) and spathiphyllum (a real tongue twister). Take your pick. They are a hardy group.

They can survive most light conditions and will do very well in bright, indirect light. Their leaves will develop brown burn spots if put in full, direct sun.

IMPORTANT: Begin with a small collection. Become familiar with the requirements of each plant you buy before trying a different one.

Grow a "living salad" right outside your kitchen window—loose leaf lettuce, dwarf carrots, radishes, chives and an assortment of savory herbs are only seconds away from the salad bowl. Because of the myriad of midget varieties available today, there almost is no limit to what can be grown in a window box says the California Association of Nurserymen. Beets, strawberries, cherry tomatoes, parsley and rosemary are all top choices for window gardening.

Your home garden

Fuchsias are favorites

Fuchsias are favorites in California. There are many reasons for the extreme popularity of these flowering shrubs; their blooms are prolific and extremely attractive in colorful, pendant forms. Fuchsias respond to the slightest bit of attention and they have a long, long, blooming season.

Plus, fuchsias can be used in a variety of planting styles throughout the garden and patio area. The shrub types are excellent choices for the landscape. Hanging basket fuchsias spill their beauty — creating an extraordinary accent wherever they are displayed. Espaliered against a wall or fence, fuchsias make a fine background to set off bedding plants or low growing shrubs.

While fuchsias prefer coolness, humidity and shade, this doesn't mean they cannot be grown in the interior valleys, says the California Association of Nurserymen. By creating special situations of part shade, early morning or late afternoon sun, and a little or no drying wind, successful results can be expected.

Assuring successful results will be enhanced if the fuchsias' moisture needs are attended to each day. Check for moisture content of soil; provide overhead waterings to furnish the necessary humidity in the early morning or late evening.

Watering is probably the most important aspect of growing fuchsias. Keep the soil moist around the plants — not muddy — from spring to fall. Under extremely hot conditions, this may require watering every day. Your nurseryman can recommend a regular program for you to follow on and feeding. Seemingly gluttonous plants, fuchsias shouldn't be overfed.

Plants might drown in love

Drowning is one of the major causes of death among plants. While some die from lack of water, most succumb to overzealous watering by unknowing new owners, who literally drown their plants with love.

It is always necessary to check the soil before watering by gently pushing your finger about an inch into the earth to see if it is wet or dry. In the winter, don't be fooled by cold earth from a pot that is near a window; the soil can often feel wet.

A good rule is to let your plants become completely dry before watering them. When you do, soak until the water runs out of the bottom of the pot. Make sure the excess can drain out. Be extra careful not to overwater plants in decorative pots without drainage holes. Generally, give them less water.

Plants in plastic pots hold moisture longer than ones in clay and require fewer waterings but check all plants frequently. A little plant in a small clay pot may need watering every day while one in a 10-inch plastic pot might need a drink only once a week or less.

FUCHSIA

Fuchsias are favorites with Californians. The plants produce profusions of unique and breathtaking blooms throughout the summer months in a wide range of colors. Also, the many different fuchsia types lend themselves to use in a variety of landscape situations.

Shopping for hanging basket plants and distinctive containers in which to feature them from on high, is a fun experience today because of the myriad plant materials suitable for use in such creations. Nurseries have a wide selection of traditional and unique pots, baskets, jardinières and mobiles.

Hanging basket spotlights plant

Indoors and out, hanging baskets of blooming flowers and/or green plants add unusual and sophisticated touches to a variety of garden spots.

Hanging baskets really are "spotlight" plantings — setting cascading beauties off to their fullest advantage. You can see a brilliant array at your local nursery. Many are already designed, planted and ready for hanging at home. Or, your nurseryman can help you select the ingredients — clay pots, wooden boxes or wire baskets filled with sphagnum moss, plants and soil — to create your own colorful masterpiece.

One of the nicest things about hanging baskets is the almost endless choice of plant material suitable for planting, says the California Association of Nurserymen. Petunias, trailing geraniums or pelargoniums, penunias, fuchsias are all long-time favorites — and hardy choices. Trailing campanulas are excellent for bloom in late summer and fall. Add a touch of trailing lobelia to white campanulas for a lovely hanging basket suitable for hanging in filtered sun areas.

Once your "hanging gardens" are in place on the patio, deck, entry way, or under a tree be sure to water them daily during the summer. Since they are exposed on all sides to air and wind, the roots and tops of the plants tend to dry out rather quickly. Plants should be fertilized at least three or four times during the growing season.

Adding dramatic hanging baskets to your home landscape will give it that "well-finished" look.

Here are some award-winning gladiolus selections which will be ready for spring planting...if they are ordered in time. Shown here is Summer Snow, left, and Green Lilac of an orchid-lavender hue. Texture of both is velvety smooth and delicate.

Child center joins United Way

A new member agency of the West End United Way is the West End Child Development Centers, Inc.

Yet this organization incorporated in 1970. The some 20 volunteers, physicians and laymen have been working with children who are "in trouble," unable to adjust to school or social surroundings due to either physical or psychological problems.

The West End Child Development Centers, Inc., also deals with children belonging to parents in the financial "gray zone" — not on welfare but in low economic brackets.

Children referred to the center are given thorough physical examinations. All medical treatment is given to the youngster free of charge. Now the center is planning to initiate a counseling program.

Since its inception, the West End Child Development Center's work has been carried out once a month at the San Bernardino Health Department facilities in Ontario.

As of May 4, the center will have its own headquarters at 229 N. Laurel Ave., Ontario. The group can afford its own office because it will receive $2,000 from the 1975 budget of the West End United Way.

"This is the sum, $2,000, that we asked for. The money will be used primarily for office maintenance," Sarah Keeney, president of the group said.

Furnishing for the office have been donated and a sofa and chair have been reupholstered by the Chaffey College High School-Ontario under the direction of Harry Lawrence, head of the upholstery department.

The idea for such an agency was developed by Mrs. Keeney in the school year of 1968-69. She was teaching school and in her class was a youngster who was having a difficult time adjusting to the classroom. Mrs. Keeney knew there had to be some medical reason for the child's behavior, but she also knew the family was not on welfare—where they could take advantage of welfare's program for medical aid yet. Mrs. Keeney knew the family did not have the financial ability to support any medical care.

This is the type of family Mrs. Keeney calls in the "gray zone" of finances.

With the help of other interested friends, the West End Child Development Centers, Inc., was organized and has been quietly, but efficiently working to help children adjust ever since. In the five years since it started, the center physicians have cared for some 350 youngsters.

The program is open to any West End child or youth from kindergarten through junior college age. Reference is made to the center usually by a teacher, but can be made by a parent or interested individual. The applications are thoroughly screened before acceptance is made.

Mrs. Keeney said "We give the child personalized care and we feel we've been successful when a child is back in the classroom, functioning better and happy with himself."

An open house will be held at the new West End Child Development Centers, Inc. from 1 to 5 p.m. on May 4 and the public is invited attend.

Church News

Church news to be published in The San Dimas Press, The La Verne Leader, The Bulletin (Diamond Bar-Walnut-Rowland Heights), The Cucamonga Times, The Upland News or The Montclair Tribune should be sent to the Church Editor, Bonita Publishing Co., P.O. Box 593, Ontario 91764 at least one week in advance.

Claremont United Methodist

"Women and Worship: Is woman a dirty word?" is the topic for a 10:15-11 a.m. program Sunday at Claremont United Methodist Church, 211 W. Foothill Blvd.

Lynne Locke, a member of the church's Women's Task Force, will lead discussion on how hymns, prayers and other liturgy can be barriers to worship for women.

Other programs in the series on women and Christianity include sexism in Sunday school, May 11, and women and the future May 18. The series, designed for both women and men, is open to all area residents.

Christ Lutheran

The Lord's Supper will be celebrated in both services this Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church, 5500 Frances Ave., Chino. The hours of worship are 8:15 a.m. and 10:45 a.m.

The Rev. Aaron Plueger's sermon topic will be, "Christ's Personal Offer." A time of fellowship with refreshments will be held in the parish hall after services.

Bible Classes for all ages will meet at 9:30 a.m. The pastor's class is engaged in a study of the Book of Acts in preparation for a tour of the Bible lands this summer by some church members and the pastor.

Christian Chapel

"Bethlehem," a group from Calvary Chapel in Costa Mesa, will be in concert on May 3 at Christian Chapel, 1920 S. Brea Canyon Cut-Off Road, Walnut.

Comprised of five musicians, "Bethlehem" came together in order to capture the purity of God's word and the story of Jesus in their songs. They seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit most diligently.

The public is invited to this free performance, 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

LV Presbyterian

At the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, the La Verne Heights Presbyterian Church will hear a report on the Gideons International by one of the church elders, Tom Aitken. Gideon Don Spafford will also bring a message and a retiring offering will be taken for this missionary enterprise.

Dr. John R. Springer, pastor, will preach a sermon on the Fourth Commandment: "On Keeping the Lord's Day."

Church of the Brethren

Glen Crago, professor of sociology at La Verne College, will speak 10:45 a.m. Sunday at the Fellowship Church of the Brethren, 2282 Third St., La Verne. Also, a special Brethren Heritage feature will be given by Robin Carroll. Worship leader will be Stan Brooks, church moderator.

Sunday School will be at 9:30 a.m. Evening service will host the "Young People" from Southern California College followed by a potluck dinner at 5:30 p.m.

Faith Lutheran

Faith Lutheran Church's annual Mother-Daughter Luncheon and Boutique will be held 12 noon Saturday, May 3 at the church, 505 Bonita Ave., San Dimas.

Readings, skits and special songs will be featured during the luncheon. Items handcrafted by Faith Lutheran Church Women will be available for purchase at the boutique. Proceeds will be used to purchase books for the church's new library.

Fellowship Day to be observed

May Fellowship Day will be observed on Friday, May 2, by the Church Women United of the Ontario Communities with a continental breakfast at 9:30 p.m. followed by a service at 10 in the Westminster United Presbyterian Church, Sultana Avenue and G Street, Ontario.

Julie Scott, executive director of the newly organized Crossroads, a rehabilitation center of alcohol, drug abuse and related disorders, will be guest speaker. This talk will fit into the 1970s commitment by Church Women United to open opportunities for women in transition.

The Rev. David T. Anderson, host pastor, will lead the devotion. This year's theme for the May Fellowship Day is "Open to Live Fully." This invites the participants to experience wholeness as persons, living life to the fullest through personal growth and sharing in the lives of others. According to a spokesman for the Church Women United, this means becoming open to those who have been damaged by society or cast out because of past acts.

Women of Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic affiliation in 2,000 local units will come together to celebrate a litany of dedication to be "Open to Live Fully." Since the first May Fellowship Day in 1933, it has been traditional for church women across the country to use the first Friday in May to emphasize the creative healing relations that are possible among people in every community.

All women in the community are invited to attend. Babysitting will be available. The breakfast will cost 75 cents.

The first meeting of the Women's Aglow Fellowship will be held in Sir George's Restaurant, Pomona, with a luncheon at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, May 13.

Women's Aglow Fellowship is an organization formed to foster Christian fellowship among women everywhere, to share the full gospel of Jesus Christ. There are many chapters in the United States, Canada and other parts of the world. They offer "couples retreats" to help strengthen family relationships, as well as leadership conferences for women.

Further information is available by calling 626-0357.

Services set at Temple Shalom

Harold Rosenblum, president of Temple Shalom, announces that regular Friday night services will begin at 8 p.m., May 2. After the services the Oneg Shabbat hostesses will be Mmes. Nusia Scharf of Ontario and Lilli Singer of Claremont.

San Dimas United Methodist Youth group to attend retreat

The San Dimas United Methodist junior high youth group has scheduled a weekend retreat Friday through Sunday at Lazy W Ranch, 13 miles inland from San Juan Capistrano.

The youth and six counselors plan to arrive Friday afternoon. Opening activities will include a sing around the outdoor fireplace, indoor games in the lodge, and a snacktime.

Saturday events scheduled are rap sessions, outdoor games, hiking, crafts and a talent show.

The worship service in the outdoor chapel will highlight Sunday activities. The chapel is located on a hillside overlooking the valley where the campgrounds are located.

Months ago, treasurer Sheri Colanter made a poster picturing a cylinder to register the retreat funds as they were collected.

"It was fun coloring in the top section when we reached our goal of $225. We have the United Methodist Women to thank for generous donations and our whole congregation for supporting our car wash, rummage sale and salad buffet to help us raise funds," Sheri said.

Mrs. Burn said "The youth and counselors are looking forward to the rap sessions on the theme: The Art of Friendship."

She added, "Too few young people have been exposed to the deeper meanings of friendship. Youth often tend to treat the 'making of friends' in a somewhat mechanical fashion. Our unit of curriculum we will use tries to present friendship as a complex and profound relationship — as one form of Christian love."

The unit stresses five traits: sincerity, being one's self, patience, grace and trustworthiness.

At Gardiner Spring

S. California Mormon Choir

A unique family musical event will be held May 3 at 7:30 p.m. in Ontario's Gardiner Spring Auditorium at Chaffey High School.

Featured will be the 100-voice Southern California Mormon Choir, widely acclaimed as one of America's leading musical organizations.

The performance is sponsored as a community service by the Upland California Stake of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Tickets will be available the night of the performance at the door or for advance information and tickets call (714) 986-2089 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or 987-7412.

Gardiner Spring Auditorium is located at 2650 Euclid Avenue.

Frederick Davis, director of the choir, has prepared a program to appeal to a variety of tastes of both young and old.

Davis will conduct the choir in excerpts from grand opera and sacred choral masterpieces, but there will also be a generous portion of the program devoted to popular music, ranging from favorite old folk songs to the lilting melodies of Broadway and Hollywood.

Performances of the

Its annual Christmas-time performances of Handel's "Messiah" in the Los Angeles Music Center are rated by musical authorities as one of the major presentations of the oratorio in the United States.

The choir sings music of many nations.

John Cobb named top educator

Dr. John B. Cobb Jr., Ingham Professor of Theology at the School of Theology at Claremont and Avery Professor of Religion at Claremont Graduate School, has been selected as an Outstanding Educator of America for 1975.

Each year those chosen as outstanding educators are featured in a national awards volume, "Outstanding Educators of America," which is published under the auspices of Fuller & Dees Inc., Washington, D.C.

Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

Dr. Cobb received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago Divinity School, and he holds honorary degrees from the University of Mainz and Emory University.

He taught for five years at the Candler School of Theology and the Graduate School at Emory University, and he has been a member of the School of Theology's faculty since 1958.

Dr. Cobb is the author of numerous books, articles and essays. He is an internationally noted Whiteheadian scholar.

Dr. Joseph C. Hough Jr., Dean of the School of Theology, who nominated Dr. Cobb said, "John Cobb is a prophetic, creative and skilled teacher. He is also a leading scholar in his field. This combination, exceedingly rare in the main, is well integrated in the educative style of this man."

Pilgrim Place

Program to feature art

CLAREMONT — The Afternoons with the Arts of the Pacific Area, scheduled at Pilgrim Place on May 3 and 4 from 2:30 to 5 p.m., will feature arts and crafts from Micronesia, Polynesia, Malaya, Java, Taiwan, Hawaii, the Bushmen of Australia and the Maori of New Zealand.

The exhibit program at the Christian workers' retirement community will include a model of an ocean-going outrigger canoe and the story of how it is carved from the trunk of a huge tree, colorful leis from the south seas including 30 different kinds made of shells, demonstrations of the tying of the Borneo hat made of palm fronds, the cooking (and sampling by visitors) of pikelat, New Zealand mini-pancakes variously called nutritious and delicious, the making of batik and tapa cloth and exhibits of weaving from natural grasses, bamboo, rattan, roots and ti leaves.

The Rev. Waldo Reinohl will show color slides of homes and a complete wedding ceremony in Malay where he and Mrs. Reinohl were missionaries. The Rev. Jack Warford will present his large collection of shells from the Pacific and color slides of their various locales.

Slide shows, continuous throughout the afternoons will picture, too, Maori dances of New Zealand, the Bushmen of Australia and other topics. There will be a costume show, and light refreshments will be served.

Forty-five residents of Pilgrim Place have lived or traveled in the Pacific area. Many of them will take part in this many faceted program. Open to the public free of charge it represents the Eighth annual international arts event sponsored by the Friends of Pilgrim Place. In previous years the spring festivals have featured Japan, China, Africa, India, Turkey, Greece and Americana.

Edna Miller of Claremont is president of the Friends of Pilgrim Place. Alice Peterson is director of exhibits and Richard B. Peterson is consultant for the international arts. Edna May Soper is chairman of the exhibit guides, Margot Kieselhorst Earl and Josephine Sayre are co-chairman of the hospitality committee.

Pilgrim Place, founded in 1915, is a community of 300 retired church workers, YMCA and YWCA workers, from service in 25 foreign countries as well as nearly every state of the USA. It is the purpose of the Friends of Pilgrim Place, an organization started eight years ago and now numbering 256 members, "to call attention to the artistic, cultural and historical interest in the backgrounds of the residents of this unusual retirement community."

VCT PLAY — Bill Gornick of Upland looks in disbelief as Doug Kramer of Montclair demonstrates his sword in "A Separating Strangeness," one of five one-act plays in Valley Community Theater's New Voices Showcase presented tonight through Sunday at the theater, 132 E. Third Ave., Pomona. For more information, call 622-6954. The musical "Promises, Promises" will open May 13 at the theater.

'Applause' set for mid-May

SAN BERNARDINO — Lawrence Kasha, celebrated Tony Award-winning Broadway producer-director, will direct "Applause," San Bernardino Civic Light Opera's final production of its 1974-75 season.

Kasha shares the triumph of the Tony Award and Aegis Theatre Award for the marathon hit, "Applause," which he originally co-produced on Broadway, starring Lauren Bacall.

"Applause," starring Yvonne

De Carlo, film, stage and TV star, opens for a limited engagement, May 9 through May 17, at the California Theatre of Performing Arts.

Kasha, who has been associated with such Broadway notables as Harold Prince, is returning to the CLO stage after a 12-year absence and a string of musical hits spanning from New York to London. The noted director staged Civic Light Opera's first production of "The Sound of Music." Since that time, Kasha has chalked up one success after another in New York and London.

His New York directing credits include "Lovely Ladies, Kind Gentlemen," "Bajour" and "Showboat." He also directed the award-winning Off-Broadway production of "Anything Goes," and the National Touring Companies' "Cactus Flower," "Star-Spangled Girl," "Camelot," and "Lil Abner."

Tickets for "Applause" are now on sale and can be purchased at the Civic Light Opera Box Office, 2079 N. E. St., San Bernardino, phone 882-2545, and at the Chamber of Commerce, Ontario.

Original drama due at college

LA VERNE — An original drama, "Emmaus and the Road There," will be presented by the La Verne College Theatre Company Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 1, 2 and 3 in Dailey Theatre.

The play is based on the story in Luke 24: 13-35 in which two of Jesus' disciples on the road to Emmaus discuss the crucifixion of their leader. Unknowingly, the pair encounter the very man they are talking about.

Far from being a stiff church play, Emmaus attempts to convey the despair of the Crucifixion and glory of the Resurrection in very human terms.

The author is Frank Ramirez, who will also direct the production. Jim Henderson will design the set, and Wayne Trimmer will be the technical director.

This is the second show Ramirez has written and directed. His first, "Foolspell," dealt with biblical themes also.

Several songs have been written into the script. Singers include Carol Bowman, Greg Stout, John Dunbar, David Glasa and Chuck Lovelace accompanied by Mike Ryan, John Trueblood and Frank Ramirez.

The cast will include David Glasa, Kara Moore, Bob Thomason, Chuck Lovelace, Dimitrios Pantzopoulos, Jim Henderson, Doug Overlock, Tony Zarate, Don Watt, Steve Adams, Debbie Knesley and Jean Chapin.

Tickets may be purchased at the door the night of the performance.

successful "Peanut Gallery," a series of Saturday matinees performed by children for children. Although there is an emphasis on presenting the traditional fairy tales and fantasies of the young, the "Peanut Gallery" strives to highlight the music and dance aspects of children's theater. The first production is "Androcles and the Lion" which will continue through the month of April.

The Gallery's second new showcase is called "The Reel Gallery." A movie watchers and filmmakers delight. Not only will the Wednesday night activities feature classical and award winning films, but on the same bill will be amateur and semiprofessional presentations by local West End community filmmakers. One of the first films to be premiered as the Gallery's focus on local talent will be the Light House

Production of "Make um Laugh," produced and directed by R. Douglas Dowd. The film is the product of many months of intensive effort and is scheduled for entry in the Kodak film festival, later on this year.

The Gallery continues to present its regular schedule of family theatrical productions under the direction of Mark Shipley. Presently on the boards is the delightful and the widely acclaimed "6 Rms Riv Vu."

The Gallery presentations are the brain child of Jeanne and Mark Shipley. Their theater has been a significant contributor to the cultural life of the West End for the last eight years.

Tickets, showtimes and information concerning pre-screenings and auditions for future productions are available by calling 982-5357.

FINAL PERFORMANCE — Jim Lawry (left) and Branch Woodman rehearse in the Peanut Gallery's production of "Androcles and the Lion," which will have its final performance 1 p.m. Saturday at the Gallery Theatre, corner of C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario. The Peanut Gallery is a weekly matinee for children. The group's next production will be "Snow White and the Seven Dwarves."

Mobile home show set at Anaheim Stadium

ANAHEIM — The 3rd Annual Southern California Mobile Home Show has been scheduled for a 9-day run, Sat., May 10 through Sun., May 18 at Anaheim Stadium.

The show will be set up in "The Mobile Home Village," which will occupy a choice section of the Angel Stadium parking lot. A complete lineup of the newest mobile home models will be on display — singles, doubles and triplewides.

The mobile home industry, according to Don Elwood, producer, has shown a steady increase in both public interest and sales over the past few years. The reason is obvious, as these "manufactured housing units," as they are called, possess inherent advantages to potential home buyers.

Mobile homes come completely equipped and furnished, with built-in kitchen, bathroom, livingroom and bedroom accessories. Mobile homes have generous wall space and closets. Bedroom, kitchen areas and bathrooms are usually larger than conventional housing. Buyers of mobile homes can order a unit and expect delivery a week or so later.

Tickets now on sale for musical

LOS ANGELES — Seats are now on sale at the Music Center Pavilion and at all Mutual agencies for the new production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" which will open the 38th annual season of the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera on May 13th.

Celebrity shirts go on auction block

Paul Newman, James Garner, Dennis Weaver, Lee Majors and Telly Savalas all have one thing in common this year: they're giving the shirts off their backs for KCET's annual fund-raising Auction, which airs May 2-10 (6 p.m. to midnight each day).

The shirts — all seen on the stars in either movies or television series — are among the many celebrity donations to Channel 28's Auction, proceeds of which go to help defray operating costs, develop new programming and keep existing shows on the air.

Majors maintains you will look like a million dollars in the shirt he wore in "The Six Million Dollar Man." Newman's shirt was seen in "The Sting" and was donated through Universal Studios, which also offered garments from Garner ("Rockford Files"), Weaver ("McCloud") and Savalas ("Kojak").

If any of the high bidders for the shirts need cuff links, they can try for those worn by Fred Astaire in "The Towering Inferno." They were donated by Burbank Studios, as was a sword used by Errol Flynn in the swash-buckling "Iron Mistress."

Other celebrity items featured on KCET will be: —A personal collection of autographs from stars donated by Lee Meriwether ("Barnaby Jones").

—Doc Severinsen's beaded leather vest and denim pants with sequins and fringe.

—Milton Berle's gold brocade dinner jacket.

—A six-foot-tall cut-out of Clint Eastwood with a special note from him.

—Gene Kelly's personal wallet with a note inside.

—Autographed albums from Frank Sinatra, Barbara Streisand, Tony Orlando and Dawn, and many others.

Designs from Chaffey

Show to have desert theme

Edna Henner, president of Southern California chapter National Home Fashions League (NHFL), recently announced the league again will sponsor the California Village concept, this time with a theme Desert Discovery. The promotion introduced for the first time at the L.A. Mart's summer of '74 Market presented merchandise created by a group of manufacturers working along the same design theme to produce a coordinated group of home furnishings. This year's introductions, based on the western desert theme, will be seen for the first time at the Mart's summer market, July 6-11.

Interior and product design students from Chaffey College and other colleges and universities will submit renderings of room settings which include designs for merchandise inspired by the Desert Discovery theme. Competition judgement will take place April 26. Two renderings from each participating school will be entered. Winning entries will be turned over to student design teams who will execute the renderings into actual room settings. Student teams will be given a budget for these settings which is funded by the participating manufacturers, the National Home Fashions League and the L.A. Mart.

At least one new item of merchandise created for Desert Discovery will be featured in each room setting. NHFL will present awards to the design team for each of the winning rooms. Monetary awards for the best student designs submitted will be provided by participating companies. The winning designs will be produced and entered into the company's lines. Monterey Furniture will give the award for best design in upholstered furniture. Albright and Zimmerman will award first and second prizes for casegoods and Stellar Lamps will be awarded for lamp designs.

The room settings will be on display throughout Summer Market in a special showcase showroom provided by the L.A. Mart in spaces 216-220. Galleries of Design Boards by the students will also be featured in the three contiguous showrooms.

The schools involved in the competition are Cal-State University, Northridge, Chaffey, Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising, U.C.L.A., California State University, Long Beach and Woodbury University. Interior design and product students from schools other than those listed may submit product designs for judging by contacting Edna Henner at (213) 782-4727.

Mojave River Forks activity
Trail riding, camping offered

The San Bernardino County Regional Parks Department and Equestrian Trails Incorporated will co-sponsor a Mojave River Forks Trail Ride and Encampment on May 16, 17, and 18. The River Forks, a County Regional Park in Summit Valley that is reportedly becoming one of the outstanding equestrian campgrounds in California, will be the weekend's basecamp.

This three-day event will offer separate rides into several varieties of desert - mountain scenery. On Friday afternoon, a short four-hour ride will kick off the festivities. One three-hour and two six-hour-long journeys will be held on Saturday, with a lively square dance wrapping up the day's activities. Sunday will feature two rides - one four-hours long, and another shorter ride lasting two hours. All rides will leave from Mojave River Forks Campground. Horses should be shod, and no studs or dogs will be allowed on the trail. Group camping facilities will be provided at $2 a night per rig. For information phone (714) 383-1912.

Two classes schedule reunions

It has been 10 years since the classes of 1965 graduated from Pomona Catholic Boys and Girls' High Schools.

A class reunion will be held on June 7, at The Hills Club, 1673 Maple Hill Rd., Diamond Bar at 8 p.m.

Reservations must be made by May 1, according to group spokesman Debi Snyder.

The reunion will include cocktails, a buffet dinner and dancing. One of the biggest problems of the reunion committee is determining the whereabouts of many graduates of 1965.

Anyone with information on the location of graduates is asked to call Mrs. Snyder at 983-7939 or Mrs. Pat Chiappetta at 629-0554.

Openings expected in handicap classes

There are a few expected openings in the two Casa Colina Therapeutic Preschool Classes for children with orthopedic and neurological handicaps.

The classes are co-sponsored by the Pomona Unified School District under the direction of whoylee Gracy. They are part of the Casa Colina Children's developmental Services directed by Dr. Elizabeth eumann, a clinical psychologist. A combined therapy approach uses trained therapists and consultants in speech, education, psychology, dietetics and physical and occupational therapy.

Children are encouraged to develop and explore their strengths and use them to overcome handicaps. Art, music, swimming and other enrollment criteria are part of the program. Parents work actively in the program as classroom volunteers.

For further information contact Mrs. Gracy's office, Pomona Unified School District, 623-5251 Ext. 211, or Jean Moore, Casa Colina Hospital, 593-7251, Ex. 275.

SACRAMENTO - For Californians who speak only Spanish, a Spanish-language edition of the State Parks Map is available at most State Park System units.

The folder gives information on what to do and see while 1970 State parks, beaches, midseries, historical units and recreation areas. Like the English-language edition, it starts how to make campsite reservations, what camping facilities are available at each unit, what regulations are on everything from dogs to wildflowers, and where to go to use boats, horses and fishing rods.

A special section briefly describes each of the historical units and there is a detailed information section on Hearst and Simeon State Historical Monument. One side of the folder is a map in color showing where to find the parks and other units.

The map is available at most state parks and the Los Angeles office at 128 Plaza Street. A copy is available by mail from the California Department of Parks and Recreation, P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento, California 95811.

Right to Life workshop set
in Los Angeles

The Pomona Valley West End Right To Life League will participate in a workshop for speakers to be held at Loyola University School of Law in Los Angeles May 17. The event will include all of the league's chapters and is designed to update experienced speakers and train new ones.

Included in the program will be a discussion of situations that speakers may be faced with as they hold educational programs. Also included in the program will be a mock debate, talks on areas of concern, a question and answer period, and a newly developed audio-visual presentation.

All area residents that are interested in attending the workshop are invited to call Paul Vadrans at 982-7390 by May 1.

Low-calorie mushrooms stretch eating satisfaction, add few calories as in this flavorful mushroom-sauced fish. This is a good combination for nutrition along with giving you a chance to eat well yet cut down on calories.

Baked mushrooms fish, are super

Overweight and age are usually linked. Unfortunately, if we lead the comfortable life normal to most Americans we are likely to put on a few pounds every year until we're shocked one day by the pointer on the scale.

Get to know the "smart foods," such as mushrooms, which have delightful flavor and texture but a low calorie count — less than 100 per pound

Hot breakfast treat

Low Cholesterol Muffins

1½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cup margarine
¾ cup skimmed milk
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
Measure flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into mixing bowl. Mix well. Add margarine and break up with a fork. Blend in milk, stirring only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in beaten egg white. Brush 15, 2½-inch muffin cups with margarine. Fill 2/3 full. Bake at 400 degree oven 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 15 muffins.

if eaten "neat." They can be simmered in bouillon or vegetable juice or seasoned with a pinch of one spice or another and still remain calorie bargains. (However you prepare them, avoid sauteing since the fat calories add up fast.)

Baked Fish with Mushrooms is an appetizing and low-calorie main dish. When you read the recipe given below you'll see that no form of fat or oil is needed. Steak and Mushrooms Oriental uses a few drops of oil per portion, but the mushrooms, celery, green onions, water chestnuts and trimmed beef strips go easy on calories and provide a lot of eating satisfaction.

You may know the low calorie count per portion, but the rest of the family needn't know; they will just relish the flavor of these two main dishes.

Baked Fish With Mushrooms

½ pound fresh mushrooms or 1 can (6 to 8 oz.) sliced mushrooms
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce

3 tablespoons diced green pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

1½ pounds halibut steaks
Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms (makes about 2½ cups) or drain canned mushrooms. Place mushrooms in a medium saucepan along with tomato sauce, onion, green pepper, lemon juice, salt, sugar and black pepper. Bring to boiling point, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 2 minutes. Spoon half of the mushroom mixture into a lightly greased 11½ x 7½ x 1½-inch baking pan. Top with fish then remaining mushroom mixture. Bake uncovered in a preheated moderate oven (350 F.) until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, about 20 minutes. Arrange fish on a heated platter. Spoon mushroom sauce over fish.

Yield: 4 portions, 268 calories per portion.

Steak and Mushrooms Oriental

1 pound fresh mushrooms or 2 cans (6 to 8 oz. each) sliced mushrooms
1½ pounds beef flank steak
1 teaspoon salad oil
2 cups thinly sliced celery
½ cup sliced scallions or green onions
1 can (8½ oz.) water chestnuts, undrained and sliced
1/3 cup domestic soy sauce
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

1 garlic clove, minced
Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms (makes about 5 cups) or drain canned mushrooms; set aside. Trim excess fat from beef; cut crosswise on the diagonal into thin strips. In a large skillet heat oil. Add beef, half at a time. Cook and stir until beef is browned, about 10 minutes. Return all of the meat to the skillet. Add reserved mushrooms and remaining ingredients. Cook and stir for 10 minutes.

Yield: 6 portions, 151 calories per portion.

Baseball season brings new idea for hot dogs

What's more all American than baseball!

Hot dogs... that's what!

Baseball and hot dogs have been great American go-togethers for years. As this baseball season begins, here fresh from the test kitchens of Rochester, N.Y., are two new recipes for the old time favorite hot dogs.

Fielder's Choice Franks are a winning combination of traditional "flavorites." Spread a mixture of prepared yellow mustard, catchup, and peanut butter on slices of bread, then wrap them around the franks. The bread toasts up crispy as the hot dogs cook to perfection.

Big League Baked Franks, as the name implies, are also an oven-baked variation on the frankfurter theme. A surprise ingredient, an envelope of potato pancake mix, teams up with the frankfurters for a homerun combination.

Whether you are feeding little leaguers with big league appetites or television viewing fans, either of these recipes served with carrot sticks, dill pickles, ice cream sandwiches and milk is sure to make at hit!

Fielder's Choice Franks
8 to 10 slices white
1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard
2 tablespoons catchup
2 tablespoons crunchy peanut butter

1 pound frankfurters (8 to 10)
Melted butter

Trim crusts from bread (save crusts to use for bread crumbs). Flatten each slice of bread with rolling pin. Combine mustard, catchup, and peanut butter; spread on bread. Place a frankfurter diagonally across each slice of bread. Wrap corners of bread up over frankfurters and fasten with wooden picks. Brush outside of bread lightly with melted butter. Bake at 400° for 15 to 20 minutes, until frankfurters are heated and bread is lightly toasted. 4 or 5 servings (2 per serving).

Big League Baked Franks

1 egg
3/4 cup water
1 envelope (4-servings) potato pancake mix
2 slices uncooked bacon, diced
2 slices process American cheese, diced
1 pound frankfurters (8 to 10)

Stir together egg, water, and contents of potato pancake mix envelope; let stand 10 minutes. Stir in bacon and cheese. Split frankfurters, cutting not quite through to bottom; spread potato mixture on cut surfaces.

Bake at 400° for about 30 minutes, until lightly browned. 4 to 5 servings (2 per serving).

Spice Pear and Grape Cobbler

Older persons enjoy a variety of foods but often must follow special diets. They also tend to prefer softer-textured and milder-flavored foods than they did when kicking up their heels in their mid-20s. For those who live alone or make up a twosome, it often is a bother to cook often. Thus many older persons don't always get the daily well-rounded nutrition they need. Helping many overcome that food ennui are fresh fruit desserts which make use of wholesome natural sugars in fruits and play down refined sugar. The mix of flavors piques even the most jaded appetite, and such desserts are easy to digest. A Spiced Pear and Grape Cobbler may be prepared for four persons if you're expecting guests or stretched to more than one meal if you have leftovers.

Spiced Pear and Grape Cobbler
2 pears, pared, cored and cut into thin slices
1 cup halved, seeded grapes
2 tablespoons plus 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, divided
4 1/2 teaspoons flour
1/4 teaspoon plus 1/8 teaspoon cinnamon, divided
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
2 tablespoons fresh orange juice

2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
5 refrigerated biscuits
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted

In a medium bowl combine pears, grapes, 2 tablespoons sugar, flour, 4 teaspoon cinnamon, nutmeg, orange juice and lemon juice. Mix well and turn into a greased 1-quart casserole. Bake, covered, in 425 degree oven 40 minutes. Cut biscuits in quarters. Place on top of fruit. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with remaining 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar and 8 teaspoon cinnamon. Bake, uncovered, 10 to 12 minutes, until golden brown. Serve warm or cool. Makes 4 servings. Use a small package of biscuits, or half of an 8- or 9.5-ounce package. With larger package, bake remaining biscuits according to package directions and reserve for later use.

Banana Custard
3 eggs
4 1/2 teaspoons sugar
1 cup milk
2/3 cup mashed ripe bananas (2 medium)
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

In medium bowl beat together all ingredients. Pour into four 6-ounce custard cups. Place cups in pan and add 1 inch water. Bake in 325-degree oven 30 minutes or until tip of knife inserted in custard comes out clean. Cool, then refrigerate. Makes 4 servings.

Apple Bread Pudding
3 slices dry bread, cut into 1/2 to 1/4 inch cubes (1 1/4 cups)
3/4 cup chopped pared apple (1 medium)
1 1/2 cups milk
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
1/4 teaspoon vanilla

among four greased 6-ounce custard cups. In a small saucepan scald milk with butter and sugar. Gradually beat in hot milk mixture. Stir in vanilla. Add milk mixture to custard cups. Let sit at room temperature for 2 hours. Place custard cups in a pan and add 1 inch of water. Bake in 350-degree oven 45 minutes, until tip of knife inserted in center of custard comes out clean. Makes 4 servings.

Form good habits

Forming good eating habits early is one of the foundations for health that parents can pass along to children.

Dairy Council of California nutrition consultants have compiled a list of pointers that may help parents in developing these habits in their preschool children.

— Serve small portions of food; use small manageable glasses of milk and juices.

— A medium temperature for food, rather than too hot or cold, is usually preferred by young children.

— "Finger foods" which are easy to handle are usually popular. Examples are wedges of hardcooked egg or tomato, cubes of meat or cheese, strips of carrots, small sandwiches.

— Children sometimes prefer raw rather than cooked vegetables.

— Moderately seasoned foods are usually preferred by young children. The rest of the family can add extra seasoning at the table.

— "Food jags," in which a certain type of food is eaten repeatedly for a short time, should not cause undue concern. Usually children will return to a more varied diet if no issue is made of the temporary preference.

— Serving a disliked food in a new way, in very small portions or with a well-liked food often overcomes the dislike.

Hustle, bustle

We are a nation in a hurry and homemakers have less time than ever to spend in the kitchen preparing family meals.

This fact was emphasized in a nationwide survey conducted by the Consumer Education Committee of the National Broiler Council to determine consumer attitudes concerning preparation, purchasing and serving of chicken.

A majority of those responding said "preparation time" was the most important influence in their decision to try a new recipe.

Refrigerator stew is good

Everybody has a favorite family recipe. Yours may turn out to be a refrigerator stew.

Refrigerator Stew
1 1/2 lbs. chopped beef
2 tablespoons margarine
2 cups sliced onions
2 cups sliced celery
2 cups sliced carrots
2 cups diced potatoes
1/4 cup chopped parsley
1 can (17 oz.) great northern beans (or your favorite beans)
2 cans (15 oz. each) spaghetti sauce with meat

Brown beef in margarine in a 6 quart saucepot. Add onions and continue browning for 5 minutes. Drain off excess fat. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and cook for 25 to 30 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Allow to cool partially. Place in 3 quart bowl and store covered in refrigerator overnight.

Reheat and serve. Makes 12 one cup servings. Use part for dinner; place remainder in appropriately sized freezing containers — label and freeze for future use.

Macaroni Casserole Italiana Easy, Delicious, Everyday Casserole

1 cup uncooked macaroni
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 package (10 oz.) frozen green peas
1 (15 oz.) can spaghetti sauce with meat

Preheat oven 400 F. Cook macaroni according to package directions. Drain well. Melt butter in skillet. Add onion and green pepper and cook until tender but not brown. Mix cooked macaroni, vegetables, one-half can of sauce and one-half of cheese. Place in 2 quart casserole. Top with remaining sauce and cheese. Bake for about 25 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Cook oven meal to save on energy

Whether you cook for two or eight, ovens are large enough to accommodate the entire meal — meat, vegetables and dessert.

Depending on the size of your family, market accordingly — a smaller or larger chicken, vegetables to last several days in the refrigerator, staples such as onions and potatoes brought when they are on special.

And don't overlook the time and step-saving convenience of newer housewares coming on the market. Whether you live in house, apartment, mobile home or a vacation house chances are you could use more cutting surface. Investigate the new adjustable counter top sink board. You will find it in the housewares are sold. It comes in two sizes with an adjustable frame to make it fit any sink up to 20 inches. After vegetables are cleaned and cut at the sink, put it to a second use as a cutting board or tray. The wood is finished with a longlasting wood preservative, the unit equipped with white vinyl coated handles and protective non-skid white rubber feet.

In preparing for any energy saving oven meal, consider the way you roast the meat. An adjustable roasting pan enables you to adjust the rack to fit the size meat or poultry so that juices are not dried out and the meat is browned overall. Juices collect in the pan for making gravies or sauces as you wish.

In this timely oven meal the Roast Chicken Rosemary, Vegetable Casserole and Applesauce Bread Pudding are baked at the same time with the same energy.

Roast Chicken Rosemary

1 whole broiler-fryer chicken
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Use neck and other giblets to make broth or for other purposes. Rinse and dry chicken. Season chicken with lemon juice, salt, rosemary and pepper. Sprinkle parsley inside body cavity. Tie legs together with soft string; tuck wings back and under. Place rack on an adjustable pan and lock into a V-shaped position to cradle the chicken. Place in oven with Applesauce Bread Pudding and Vegetable Casserole. Bake in 350 degree F oven  $1\frac{1}{4}$  to  $1\frac{1}{2}$  hours depending on size of chicken. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Vegetable Melange

Casserole
6 small onions
6 small potatoes
4 to 6 carrots
4 ribs celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$  pound fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 teaspoons salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup water
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

For ease of preparation place counter top sink board over sink. Peel potatoes and carrots with a stainless steel vegetable peeler. Push parings into sink or disposal unit. With a sharp knife cut potatoes in half, carrots into thin sticks about 2 inches long, celery into 2-inch pieces, mushrooms in halves or quarters depending on size. If needed, rinse prepared vegetables. Place in oven casserole. Dot with butter. Stir salt into water and sprinkle evenly over vegetables. Cover. Bake in 350 degree F oven  $1\frac{1}{4}$  to  $1\frac{1}{2}$  hours with oven meal. Just before serving sprinkle with parsley. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Applesauce Bread Pudding

$\frac{1}{3}$  cup butter or margarine
3 cups bread cubes
3 cups thick homemade applesauce (recipe follows)
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup raisins
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon allspice
 $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt

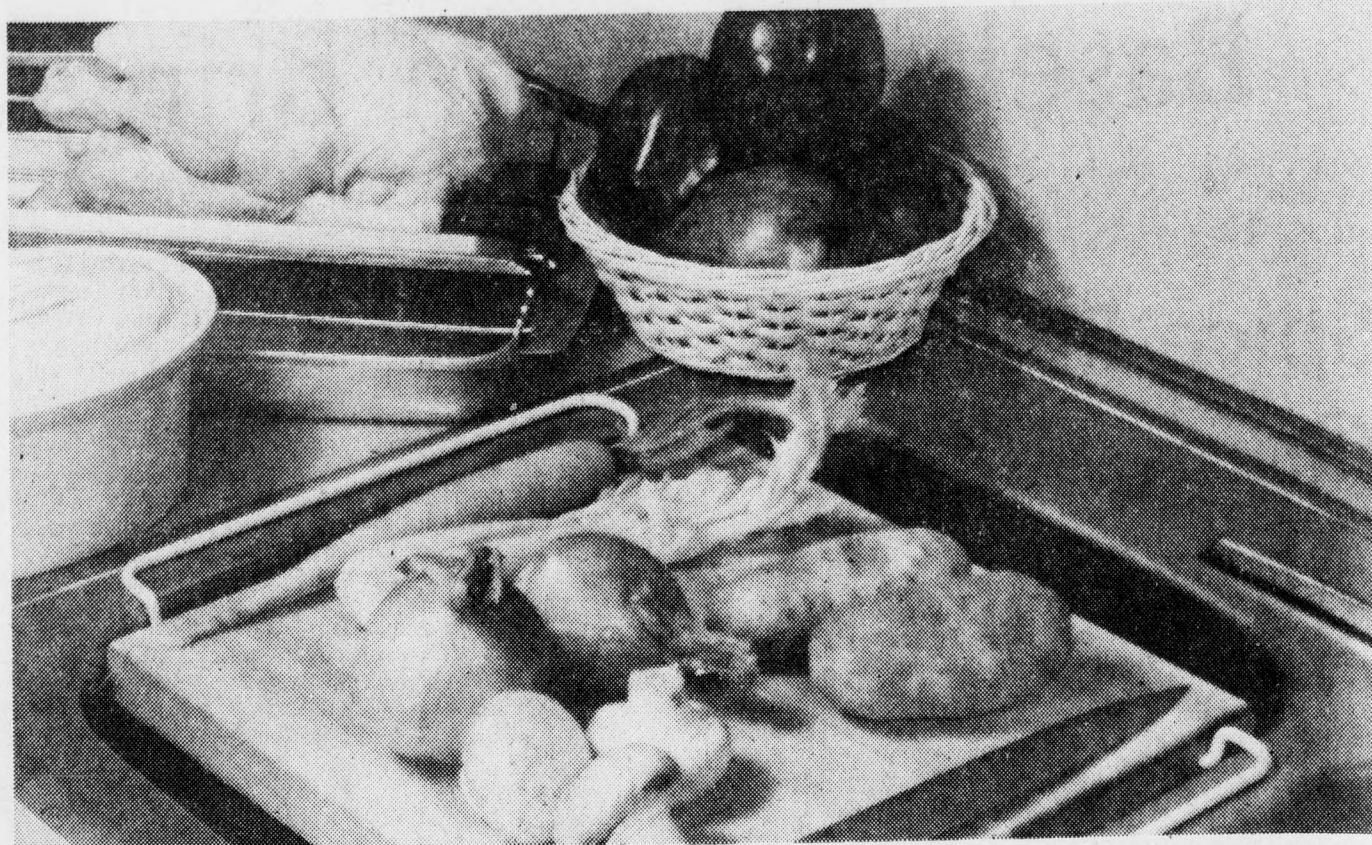

Melt  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of the butter in skillet or saucepan. Add bread cubes and toss until well coated. Stir together applesauce, raisins, sugar, cinnamon, allspice and salt. In buttered 9x5x3-inch loaf pan layer the applesauce mixture and bread crumbs with a layer of bread on top. Dot with remaining margarine. Bake in 350 degree F oven with oven meal  $1\frac{1}{4}$  to  $1\frac{1}{2}$  hours. Serve warm or cold. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Homemade Applesauce

4 pounds apples
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup water
1 to  $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups sugar
Wash apples and quarter without peeling or coring. Remove blossom ends and stems. There should be about 4 quarts. In large saucepan or kettle place apples and water. Cover and cook over low heat 15 to 20 minutes or until apples are soft, stirring occasionally. Spoon apples, a third at a time, into food mill placed over a bowl or saucepan. Strain apples through mill, turning the handle and pressing all the sauce through the mill. (If excess liquid, depending on apples and season, drain.) Add 1 cup of sugar; stir. Taste and add extra sugar, if needed. Makes about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  quarts. Note: If desired, lemon juice may be added for extra tartness. If used, stir in after tasting.

Here are foods in preparation for an energy-saving oven meal. Everything will go into the oven for a delicious dinner with chicken for the entree. Good way to fight inflation whether cooking for two or eight.

Try fish for spring

At this time of year most consumers are tired of the same old calorie-laden foods that are usually routine during the winter months.

If you are casting about for new ideas — try fish! Fishery products are good to eat, good for you, and there are countless ways to prepare and enjoy the bounties from the sea or fresh water. Stop at the seafood market today; you'll probably be amazed at the wide variety of seafood styles that are available, either fresh or frozen.

Reel in a couple of pounds of fish fillets for dinner tonight. Fish fillets are the tender sides of the fish cut lengthwise away from the backbone, and they are ready to use. There is practically no waste in fish fillets, so you really get your money's worth. Many varieties of fish are plentiful and fillets cut from these fish will be lower in cost than the scarcer species.

Choose your favorite variety of thick fish fillets and prepare them in the following recipe, Sunny Seafood. Haddock, cod, or pollock produce thick fish fillets and any of these varieties may be used in this tasty entree.

Sunny Seafood is so easy to prepare; just roll the fillets in flour and place them in a greased baking dish. Sunny-up the fillets with a mixture of tangy-sweet orange juice, salad oil, a touch of tart lemon, and a hint of garlic, then bake until flaky. About a half hour baking time is all that's needed, just enough time for you to prepare the rest of the feast. You'll be fishing for compliments without straining the budget with this dish. Be assured that you'll reel them in too, as your family enjoys this great-for-spring, but year-round-good, change-of-pace seafood entree.

Sunny Seafood
2 pounds skinless thick fish fillets, fresh or frozen
1 cup flour
1 cup orange juice
1/4 cup salad oil
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Lemon slices

Thaw frozen fillets. Cut fillets into 6 portions. Roll fillets in flour. Place fish in a single layer in a well-greased baking dish, 12 by 8 by 2 inches. Combine remaining ingredients except lemon slices. Pour sauce over fish. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 25 to 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve with lemon slices. Makes 6 servings.

Now that winter is over and you are thinking toward lighter foods, turn to fish for good spring eating. Fish is tender, quick to prepare and low on those old calories. This Sunny Seafood recipe is made with orange juice and dash of garlic.

What's age limit of canned foods?

How can you judge whether stored canned foods are still good?

According to Dr. George York, extension food technologist, Davis, cans or jars of food which have good seals and are not bulged or leaking are safe many years. Technologists at Davis have examined canned foods which were stored for 60 years, and they were free of bacterial contamination.

On a practical basis, however, quality and the type of food limit the time a specific canned product may be stored. Canned fish and seafood (mackerel, tuna, clams and oysters) may be stored for up to 10 years without significant decreases in quality provided the storage is at temperatures below 70 degrees.

Canned vegetables (corn, peas, beans, carrots, etc.) may be stored up to five years without significant changes in quality, as can pickles, jams, jellies and fruits in glass jars, provided temperatures are below 70 degrees.

Some products, because of high acidity or corrosive properties, have shorter shelf lives. For example, canned tomato sauce, cream of mushroom soup, olives, pineapple, applesauce and mandarin oranges should not be stored longer than three years. After this time, you can expect swelling cans caused by corrosion and/or loss of flavor and color

New idea cake

We tend to think of fruit cakes during the winter holiday season, but this one is traditionally served in England in the springtime.

We recommend that you make Simnel Cake at least several days before you plan to serve it. The flavors and textures will improve with a little ageing.

Simnel Cake
1/2 cup unblanched almonds
1 2/3 to 2 cups sugar
6 eggs
5 drops almond extract
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup currants or raisins
1/2 cup glaze fruit mix
1/2 cup coarsely cut fresh dates
2 3/4 cup soft butter or margarine
Whole blanched almonds
Corn syrup
Grind unblanched almonds. Blend with 1 to 1 1/3 cups sugar, 1 egg and almond extract to stiff paste. (Amount of sugar varies with size of egg.) Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Mix fruits. Cream butter with 2 3/4 cup sugar; thoroughly beat in 4 eggs, one at a time. Stir in flour mixture and fruits. Spread half of mixture into well greased and floured springform pan. (or use 8 x 1 1/2-inch round layer pan with 1-inch deep foil collar.) Sprinkle 1 1/2 almond paste over mixture; spread remaining mixture on top. Bake in 325-degree oven 50 to 55 minutes, or until toothpick inserted in center comes out dry. Remove from oven; set oven thermostat at 425 degrees. Roll remaining almond paste on floured cookie sheet or small cutting board to 8-inch circle; slide circle onto cake. Beat remaining egg lightly; brush over paste. Cut design in paste with tip of knife if you wish. Return cake to oven; bake 10 minutes or until golden brown. Garnish with whole almonds; brush almond lightly with corn syrup. Cool. Wrap in foil or saran and store in refrigerator to mellow. Makes 10 servings.

Don't Be Half-Safe When The Other Half Is Your Health

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

Whiplash neck injuries are among the fastest growing health problems today. The increased congestion on streets and highways, power brakes and more powerful engines all contribute to the growing frequency of the type of accident that can result in a whiplash neck injury.

Dr. W. P. Helzer, D.C.

The biggest problem, as I see it, is the ignorance of the whiplash problem. Not a day goes by that someone doesn't suffer a whiplash that he or she is unaware of . . . at least he or she doesn't know about it for days or even weeks when its telltale and devastating aftereffects show up in the form of pain and problems.

The U.S. Air Force studies substantiate the cause of whiplash.

They (the USAF) have shown that the normal neck can withstand a forward snapping of 50 times the force of gravity before producing major injury. But they also show that the neck can withstand a backward snap . . . or whip of only five times the force of gravity before injury can be sustained.

At a mere 25 miles per hour, a crash impact creates a force exceeding 3,400 pounds on the victim's neck. What does this mean in terms of potential injury?

This sudden, forceful movement often stretches or sprains the ligaments or muscles which hold the spinal segments within a critical range of movement or position.

Failure of the holding ligaments to support the spine allows the spinal segments to become displaced, thus altering the normal mechanical balance of the spine.

This increased stress results in eventual degenerative disease of the disc with 'spur' formation and the 'spurs' will occlude the spinal nerve openings.

It is important to note that virtually every person involved in a moving vehicle accident suffers whiplash injury to some degree.

Granted, its symptoms are not always readily clear. Some individuals experience no pain or discomfort for weeks following the accident.

All those involved in accidents should seek competent whiplash injury diagnosis.

Left untreated, a whiplash injury can eventually open a veritable 'Pandora's Box' of painful, chronic health problems that can just as eventually lead to a lifetime of misery.

As the old commercial once said . . . "don't be half-safe." In a whiplash, "the other half is your life."
